he "Young Napoteon" Meets Garpler, and a Large Crowd Applieds His Mar-vellops Exhibition—He Defents the Noted French Expert by a Score of 600 to 178, Frank Christian Ives, who used to be called

The Michigan Lad" when he first gave up hicycling to try billiards, met Albert Garnier, champion of Belgium, in the "International Trio" tournament in the Madison Square Gar-den Concert Hall last night. Crowned with laurels during his tour abroad, in which he had defeated all the foreign talent, he was naturally the favorite with the spectators when he faced Garnier. Ives labored under a disadvantage at the start. He had so easily overcome his foreign rivals and had played such ing billiards during his travels that he stood in the position of a player of whom almost too much was expected by his friends. His high rank as the scknowledged best all-round player at any style of billiards made his posttion even more embarrassing. It is not the easiest thing in the world for a star to maintain s preëminently high standard at all times Furthermore, the spectators looked to Ives to show them the art of "nursing" on the rall in its perfection at the extended eighteen-inch

Ives began position play on the instant, and he kept it up with such consummate skill that every spectator became enamored of his wondrous stroke, notable alike for its delicacy of touch and astonishing judgment of force in the "drive." On the forty-sixth shot he tried successfully the fancy "jump" shot. This is executed by lifting the cue ball into the air by a stroke delivered under the ball and causing it to jump from object ball to object ball. It was an exhibition shot pure and simple. Its success was hailed with a roar of applause, which lves received with a hearty laugh. It was too daring an experiment, however, and he went to pieces at forty-seven. He had put up double figures at the first trial, though and that was a feather in his can.

Garnier jumped to the table and began to nurse the "corner" daintily. He kept it up with exactness of judgment until 33 carroms had been nurse the "corner" daintily. He kept it up with stactness of judgment until 33 carroms had been displayed on his card. Ives then made 5 and Garnier spun off 18 and got the lead—68 to 61. The Frenchman held his advantage for only a moment, however.

Ives grabbed his cue, anointed it with his favorite blue chalk, and started the ivories on a swift and merry waltz. "Draws," "cushions," "drives," "follows," and "banks" succeeded each other in glorious succession, until the young billiard star had corralled fifty-six carridus. There was a rigging acclaim for the master artist of the cue, and the score cards soaring aloft showed this score: Ives, 117; Garnier, 68. Women aat in the boxes studying all this exquisite cue work with absorbed interest, and they clapped their gioved hands in enthusiastic approbation.

The Frenchman made eight singles, and the yeungster from Michigan started off on another animated and exciting race with the glistening ivories. His stroke was masterly in judgment, and it became self-evident that he wanted, for glory's sake, to overcome Schaefer's record. He kept the balls under control with necromannic art, swamped Schaefer's run amid applause, and still had the globes gyrating brilliantly to his will. Twice he caught the "anchor," toyed with it as long as suited his pleasure, and then dinced the balls back and forth along the short rail. It was all so swiftly and so ingeniously done that the spectators were surprised when Col. Foster, the referse, shouted "One Hundred," the highest run in the tourney thus far. The announcement was received with a giad outburst of applicates.

Then Ives turned the balls the other way and.

Then Ives turned the balls the other way and, with the aid of natural tact, kept them in such admirable control that he passed the 150 point and still had the globes under subjection and obedient to his will. Most all this play was "corner" work, secured by position shots on the short rail, and it demonstrated his indisputable superiority of tactics as a student of the game. A "snake massé" for position made every onlooker cheer to the celpo, but the youngster kept on, intent on the task before him and apparently heedless of the acclaims of his admirers. By jugglery that surpassed anything seen in the metropolis, he maintained the marvellous supremacy until he had rolled up a stupendous cluster of just 200 carrons. They were of all sorts, kinds, and conditions of hillards, made with a swiftness and certainty of judgment that fully justified the tremendous applause of the throng of billiard lovers who had never seen the duplicate of such an unprecedented achievement. The break of 200 carried Ives's score to 317 to Garnier's 76, a lead that was practically beyond any one's power to overcome.

Right on top of this stunning record run the Right on top of this stunning record run the Michigan expert biled another of seventy-eight, and then he began to chew gum and have fun with the little globes. He was in first-class spirits, and he tried again, and with the same nonchalant and successful art made the spectacular 'jump' shot.

spirits, and he tried again, and with the same nonchaiant and successful art made the spectacular "jump" shot.

At this point the game had developed into something that billiard lovers had never before seen in attractiveness. Ives seemed to be able to do anything he wished to with the ivories. He rattied oif star-carroms with a dashing recklessness that astonished the onlookers. Garnier got past his first string with a double-figure break of eleven, neatly executed. Then Ives sprang to the table and shook out fourteen as quick as a wink.

Garnier sat at a table holding his nose in his fingers, watching all of Ives's matchiess tactics in a calm and judicious study that gave an aspect of perfect peace to his face. He knew the battle was over, and that philosophy was the best thing to fall back upon while awaiting certain defeat. Ives ended all suspense with a run of seventy-three, and all the experts who watched it said that the youngest of the "International Trio" was entitled to first rank. Ives ran the gamut of all the scientific position shots, and it did not seem to cause him the least mental worry to solve any problem. Garnier played some superfine billares at intervals, but they counted naught against the booming and astounding cue magic of his younger rival. Everybody in the hall shouted an uproarious greeting to lyes when he finished, and everybody remembered to shake hands with Garnier, who has seemed to be in the hardest possible luck thus far. The score follows:

Ives 47, 9, 5, 56, 200, 78, 0, 0, 14, 6, 59, 53, 78-600, Garnier-10, 7, 33, 16, 5, 16, 5, 0, 0, 11, 7, 86, 27-Averages—Ives, 46 2-18; Garnier, 18 9-18, High runs—Ives, 200; Garnier, 36, Referee—H. W. Foster,

College Riders Preparing for a Brisk

The Harvard Cycling Association team got out on the road on Monday for their first road work of the season. Twenty men came out for this first read work, but as soon as the roads improve it is expected that a much larger number will enter the squad. Everything points to a first-class team, as there are some exceptionally strong, well-built men among the candidates. The Cycling Association have secured the services of A. B. Rich, the well-known professional rider and trainer. It is expected that the team will be greatly belied by being under the direction of such an rider and trainer. It is expected that the team will be greatly belied by being under the direction of such an experienced man.

The team will be aided by the coaching of F. S. Elilot, L. S., the old Harvard rider, who has held the college championably for the last two years. Elilot is unable to ride this year, but will give his attention to developing the team as assistant to Hich. The ham raws in contemplation for the June meet between Princeton and Vale has been given up, as neither to dege feels able to spare men for such an event. In place of these colleges the management are trying to arrange a team race between Columbia and Cornell, and they will probably be successful in this respect, as both colleges have a large number of good riders. Vennsylvania how desires two races in the dual games with Harvard at Philadelphia, the races to be run off on a separate one-third of a mile track the morning of the meet. As to this arrangement no settlement has yet been made. Hr. Brinkerhoff, the manager of the H. U. C. A. has written to the University of California, inviling them to enter the bicycle men of their team at the neet to be held in June, as their team will be in the East at that time. He hopes to have them represented at the meeting.

Bosrox, March $1.-At a meeting of the B.A.A. ricketers at the Exster street club house, J. W. Dutton was elected captain and George Wright vice-cap tain. The team will visit New York the first week i June, and fixtures will be made with the bjaten Island C. C., Manhattan C. C., Brookiyn G. C., New Jersey A. C., Crascout A. C., and probably the New Jersey A. C., Crascout A. C., and probably the New York Racquet and Tennia Citiu. The latter club has had a number of cricketers in previous years, and it is hoped they will be able to get together and give the B. A. A. a match.

Court Tennis. To day the first game for the amateur court tenuis championship of America will be played. Philip S. Sears of the Hoston Athletic Association and a brother of Dick Sears, for many years the lawn teamis champion of the United States, will play E. A. Thomson of the Recquet and Townis Club. Thomson recently won the club championship, and a clue scane is expected. The winner will play dr. Horton of the Recquet and Townis Club. "Horton of the Recquet and Townis Club, while L. B. Stockton will play G. R. Fearing. to see who will play in the final round. RACING.

Keene Youngsters Work Faster-Hundspring Again on the Track.

Trainers and others were unusually active at the Long Island race tracks yesterday. The day was warm and clear without a breeze sufficient to ruffle a leaf. The tracks were in fine shape at Gravesend and Sheepshead Bay. James R. and Foxhall P. Keene were at Sheeps head Bay, but neither was in time to see all the work performed by their crack youngsters. The coits, headed by the Imp. Candlemas-Belle of Maywood Thuyster, half brother to Tenny, were the first exercisers. They can-tered twice around the track, a distance of two miles and a quarter, and then worked a furious through the stretch in about 13% seconds.

miles and a quarter, and then worked a furloug through the stretch in about 13% seconds. The second set, hended by the good-looking Flying Squadron, by Sarabant, was composed of the crack fillies, imported and home bred. Their work consisted of the same as given to the colts. A couple of three-year-old fillies and geidings made up the last batch. After inspecting the entire stable Foxhall Keene remarked to The Sun reporter that they never had such a stable of horses.

Albert Cooper sent Aurelian along, leading Stephen J., in a mile gallon which was done better than a two-minute clip. The Chanier two-year-olds did nice work, the filly Salva Cea especially distinguishing herself. After a good gallop around the track a couple of times, Cooper let her down a furlong in 13% seconds. J. Kneale, Jim Shields, and James Dumas worked two sets each, at a two-minute gait. Messrs. Knox and Singerly worked a pair of fillies, Emmiskey and Minule Hibbs, three furlongs in 37 seconds, each carrying 126 pounds. They were brought over from Gravesend for a change of scene.

At Gravesend every trainer at the track had his horses on the course. P. J. and M. F. Dwyer were present, and also the stable jockey. While Simms. Handspring and P. J. Dwyer's other horses made their first appearance on the track since the late storm. The work done was light, but to-day they will be sent much faster. Hen Brush and Handspring will be ridden by Simms. Bull Daly carried off the honors of the track yesterday for fast work. Gold Dollar, Emotlonal, and Volley covering the last quarter in 25% seconds.

At Brighton Beach the work again was confined to the Boulevard. Instructions have been received from President Engleman to have the track farrowed to-day.

Arrested for Violating the Anti-Cambiing Laws of Virginia,

ALEXANDRIA, Va., March 31 .- According to an arrangement between the Commonwealth Attorney and the attorney for the St. Asaph race track, warrants of arrest, which had been previously drawn up, were this evening served on L. Bargen, G. Bowser, John Conway, and M. Lacy, charged with violating the anti-gambling laws at St. Asaph in betting on foreign races, laws at St. Asaph in betting on foreign races, &c. The warrants cover every phase of the statutes passed by the last Legislature to prevent gambling.

The arrested parties were taken before Justice of the Peace Schlevogt, when they waived examination, and all except laws, who was sent to jail, were released on ball for their appearance before the Grand Jury at the next regular term of the County Court, in September. As soon as the arrests were made betting was stopped, and will not be resumed, it is said, until the decision of the Court is rendered:

Joe Thum, who accompanied the New York interstate League bewiers to Buffalo, salid yesterday that his men were deprived of a victory owing to a mistake in the score back and that he had protested it he game. The disputed game want to the fluffalos by one pin, whereas Thum claims had the score been kept accurately the visitors would have won by a solitary pin. According to Thum, behrbach, who was the official scorer, credited Engel with nine pins in the tenth frame when he only made seven on the two balls. As Ingel main a strike in the ninth frame, to which was added seven pins. Thum says the error can be easily seen. The backers of the Buffalo feam glaim they have already lost $2,000.

eorge Standing Cleverly Defeats Tom Pettit of Boston.

That much canvassed professional racquet natch for a purse between Tom Pettit of the Boston A. A. and George Standing of the Racquet and Tennis Club was played yesterday afternoon in the court of the New York Club. It was a pretty exhibition of serving, placing, and clever scorings from opponent's errors, the final outcome being a somewhat easy victory for the New Yorker, although he conceded the odds of an extra hand to the Bostonian. That is, Pettit had to be put out twice instead of once, each time he went in to serve. There was an unusually large turnout of the members for the match. In the seats were:

C. I., Perkins, E. C. La Montagne, Sr. and Jr., Maurice La Montagne, L. Townsend, S. K. de Forrest, F. L. Henry, H. G. Mortimer, E. H. Booth, R. M. Johnson, H. Strebligh, E. M. Culver, J. H. Pettit hardly showed his best form, although he outpointed Standing by two in the grand total of aces by service. Standing played fast and accurately from the start, showing remarkable judgment in placing. His back-hand play was brilliant and effective, and helped him trequently for aces from his opponent's mistakes. Pettit's advantage in the extra hands netted him five aces in service, besides several by placing. In the third game the men were even at fourteen and the game was set. Standing scored three neat aces, which ended the game and the match. The scores follow:

TWO NEW IMPERIAL TACHTS.

The German Emperor's Meteor and the Canr's Standard Nearly Finished,

The German Emperor's new Meteor, now building at the Henderson, Glasgow, yard from designs of G. L. Watson, it is said will carry 3,000 square feet of canvas. It is also stated hat Richard G. Allan, the well-known Clyde orinthian, will have charge of her in her races in British waters. Her lead keel, it is said, weighs 78 tons, and is slightly longer than that of Valkyrie III., and is deeper by some feet forward than aft. A yacht builder who saw the Watson latest creation recently, said the ressel seemed a perfect network of nickel-steel frames, angle-iron sheet plates, horizontal stringers, and diagonal bands, while her beams are also of nickel steel. While the German Emperor will not visit England this season, it is said the Meteor will be raced there by Mr. Allan.
